

CALL TO MINISTRY

I discovered my call...

During the summer after my sophomore year in college, God began to speak to me. I was struggling to discover where God was leading me in my career. My major (Integrated Science & Technology) allowed for many different directions. Over the summer, I began an externship at our local hospital. While learning about hospital administration, I met the chaplain and began to learn about his job. At the same time, I found myself leading a bible study for college students and working with other believers in my community to start an interdenominational youth ministry.

One night, I noticed that most everything I was doing was involved in ministry. After a wrestling match with God, I recognized that God was calling me into ministry.

When I told my parents, they began to laugh. Once they gathered themselves, they told me, "It's about time you figured it out! We've known for a while now." My friends and the rest of my family agreed. Before I knew it, I found myself moving to Texas after college to attend seminary.
